May has arrived, and with it comes a season of growth, color, and sunshine. There's something about this time of year that inspires us to slow down, get outside, and reconnect with the people and places we love most. Whether it's a backyard barbecue, a walk through the neighborhood, or a quiet evening on the porch, spring is the perfect reminder of how special it is to be part of a community like ours.

At Lake City Neighbors, we love being part of that connection. This magazine exists to share your stories—the everyday joys, the remarkable accomplishments, and the heartwarming moments that deserve to be seen and celebrated. If you've ever considered nominating someone for a feature, there's no better time. Maybe it's a neighbor who always goes the extra mile, a parent making a difference, or a local business you admire. Your nominations help us continue to spotlight the people who make Lake City shine.

Be sure to check out our community calendar to see what's happening around town and how you can get involved! One exciting event coming up is the casting call for Practically Perfect Performing Arts' first production, taking place the evenings of May 8th and 9th. Auditions are open to ages 7 to 18, and more details can be found both in our calendar and within this month's cover feature.

As always, participation in Lake City Neighbors is completely free, and we're just a message away. Whether you want to submit a pet photo, suggest an idea, or simply let us know what you'd love to see in a future issue—we're all ears!

Here's to longer days, fresh beginnings, and all the new memories we'll make together this season.

Until next month, Jesus tells us in Matthew 5:13-16 that we are "the salt of the earth [...] light of the world;".

So go be a light and stay salty, friends!

Warmly,

Kaylee Crawford

When Lydia Weatherly first arrived in Lake City in 2022, she noticed something missing—community theatre. As someone with a deep love for the stage, the idea of starting her own theatre never left her mind. But like many great stories, hers began in a more whimsical way: dressing up as characters for children’s birthday parties.

That idea quickly blossomed into The Practically Perfect Party

Co. (TPPPC) in 2023—a small business that brought joy, glitter, and giggles to families across Lake City. What started as a few birthday parties turned into a full-fledged experience, with Lydia training friends in singing, dancing, and character acting to spread magic at every event.

Now, Lydia is taking her talents from birthday parties to the big stage with her latest endeavor: Practically Perfect Performing Arts (PPPA)—Lake City's very own community theatre program!

From Parties to Performing Arts

Currently studying Theatre Education and Musical Theatre at Trevecca Nazarene University in Nashville, Lydia credits her party company as the spark behind her dream. Lydia shared that TPPPC showed her how impactful a little bit of performance could be— a little bit of magic at a birthday party goes a long way. Can you imagine what a full-scale theatre production could do for a whole community?

The inspiration for Practically Perfect Performing Arts was also rooted in her love for teaching and mentoring. Hosting workshops for her party performers turned into full-blown mini acting school, where Lydia helped her friends discover their voice and creativity.

A Family Affair, Fueled by Faith

For Lydia, theatre has been a family tradition. Growing up with parents who blended ministry and the arts, she watched them direct church plays like Charlotte's Web and You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown and more. Now, that same creative energy powers PPPA.

Her dad, Glen, is one of PPPA's producers. Her mom, Tavia, serves as Art Curator and House Manager. Her brothers contribute their unique skills in worship arts, film, and design. Even her “church bestie” and family friend, Sheree Vann—who booked Lydia for her very first princess party—is now a producer.

And Lydia? She juggles it all with a color-coded schedule, late-night rehearsals, FaceTime calls with her parents, and a heart full of purpose, stating “Even though juggling so many responsibilities can be stressful at times, I’m reminded that these aren’t just tasks to check off a list—they’re part of the calling God has placed on my life. He is my motivation and my strength!”

Debut Production: Finding Nemo Jr. Swims into Town

PPPA’s first production, Finding Nemo Jr., will hit the stage June 26–29, 2025. Auditions are open to local students ages 7–18, with multiple roles and flexible options for all skill levels. Why Finding Nemo? Lydia has seen the Disney musical more than 20 times—it’s a story that captures hearts of all ages. “I’ve always loved its versatile production design and how it captivates audiences with its heartwarming story of family, friendship, and adventure,” Lydia muses.

“My goal for Finding Nemo Jr.—and all future PPPA productions—is to make sure students feel supported and encouraged,” she says. “I want them to know that the people behind the table aren’t staring them down with frowns but are cheering them on with pom poms, excited to see them shine!”

PPPA will begin as a summer theatre program, with plans to expand into holiday camps and year-round productions. The long-term dream? A vibrant, multi-use venue in Lake City that serves as the headquarters for both PPPA and TPPPC—and as a rental space for community events.

More Than Just a Stage

PPPA is more than a theatre—it’s a movement. Lydia envisions a space where all talents are welcomed: set builders, costume designers, ushers, musicians, choreographers, and more.

Workshops and camps are also in the works, from Worship Band Camp to Film Camp and even Product Design classes—each led by members of Lydia’s creatively gifted family.

Advice for Young Dreamers

Lydia knows what it’s like to dream big—and to start small. Her advice for other young entrepreneurs?

“Plan your vision, find your cheerleaders, embrace trial and error, grow your skills, and lead with kindness, boldness, and encouragement,” she says. And most importantly—”Trust in the Lord, take new opportunities, and go for it!”

Whether she’s leading a workshop, singing under the spotlight, or organizing a rehearsal from her college dorm room, Lydia Weatherly is on a mission: to build relationships, nurture God-given creativity, cultivate storytelling, and deliver exceptional performances that inspire and engage. And with Practically Perfect Performing Arts, she’s doing just that—one “happily ever after” at a time.

FWP HEALTH

BY SAM NOAH

Question everything.

This is honestly one of the most profound lessons my mom ever taught me. I really didn't have an appreciation for it until I became a nurse. Questioning the narrative is essential for personal and professional growth, critical thinking, and the pursuit of truth. By challenging the assumptions and digging deeper into what we are taught, we develop a better understanding of our relationships and the world around us. We uncover hidden biases, avoid blindly accepting information (or misinformation?), and make more informed decisions.

Applying this skill in healthcare is what sets me apart. I am able to be curious and innovative. Ultimately, this curiosity leads me to finding the root cause of illness and disease. How can we really heal without knowing why we got sick in the first place?

My curiosity paid off during the covid debacle, when I was the only healthcare provider in my area (outside of an emergency department) willing to treat patients. I had no idea what I was doing, and neither did anyone else. But in the midst of the tremendous pandemic fear, people got better. I attribute many of the early successes to just being available. Once people knew they weren't alone, the fear subsided, and they were able to heal.

At Florida Wellness and Preparedness, I have created a telehealth healing oasis. By averting insurance, I am able to provide my patients with my time, and this is where the magic happens. My goal is to get to know you so that I can provide personalized healthcare, tailored specifically to your needs!
